Soviet Press, Radio Silent On Proposals

President's Reply To Soviet Premier Delivered By Envoy

MOSCOW, Jan. 12 (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson delivered to the Soviet Foreign Office late today President Eisenhower's 4,000-word reply to Soviet Premier Bulganin's proposal for an East-West summit conference.

There was no immediate reaction in the press or radio here. The usual Soviet practice is to withhold publication of such communications until the Kremlin replies.

It was disclosed in Washington the President told Bulganin he is willing to meet with him and other leaders in a summit conference on the condition preliminary diplomatic talks give hope of a successful conclusion.

Reply To Dec. 10 Letter

The Eisenhower letter was in reply to Bulganin's letter of Dec. 10. Similar letters were sent to other nations in the NATO alliance.

The reply came as the Kremlin still was publishing new communications sent to national leaders in all parts of the world last week in a new application of the Soviet "scattered gun" diplomacy.

The Soviet press was filled with reports from abroad hailing Bulganin's summit conference proposals. One newspaper coupled these reports with a blast at U.S. Secretary of State Dulles' stand for lower level conferences.

Pravda Reports British Support

Pravda and other morning newspapers splashed Bulganin's latest letters to Western nations proposing highest - level conferences to settle disarmament and other problems.

Pravda reported that 80 percent of the British people favor the Soviet proposals and at the same time almost ignored Dulles' rejection of the summit talks as the first step toward East-West understanding.

Most of the other papers carried long reports from various nations under such headlines as "Public abroad hails Soviet proposals—build conditions for lasting and durable peace."

Gaither Report "Gag" Assailed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Sen. Hennings (D-Mo.) said today the administration's refusal to release the Gaither report is in line with what he called its assertion of virtually unlimited power to withhold information from Congress.

The report, recently submitted to the President by a group of prominent citizens after a lengthy study of national security requirements, reportedly warns that the United States faces its gravest peril in history.

Hennings said the administration's refusal to release the report either to Congress or the public is "deplorable" but not surprising.

He added in a statement: "Withholding of information from both the public and Congress unfortunately seems to have become rather commonplace in recent years, so it really shouldn't surprise anyone that the administration insists on keeping secret a document as embarrassing and explosive as the Gaither report is reputed to be."

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), chairman of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee, said Friday that group still was continuing its efforts to obtain the report as part of its inquiry into the missile and satellite programs.

Johnson said he hoped to get a final decision from the White House within a few days.

Two-Gun, 70-Year-Old Banker

Clyde L. Bratcher holds the ancient .45-caliber revolver he used in routing three bandits during a recent holdup attempt at the Bank of Clarkson, Clarkson, Ky. In the drawer is a new gun given him by friends over the weekend. Two slugs lodged in the barrel of the old one when the 70-year-old banker fired at the bandits, but he'll keep it for sentimental reasons—and protection.

Defected British Diplomat Wants To Leave USSR

LONDON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Guy Burgess, one of two high-ranking British diplomats who defected to Russia, today was reported anxious to come home.

Michael Ingrams, a television official who spent four months in the Soviet Union making films, says Burgess is asking British visitors whether he would be accepted here.

Donald Maclean, the other diplomat who crossed the Iron Curtain with Burgess, also came back into the news after months of obscurity. The mass circulation Sunday Pictorial reported he has split with his 41-year-old American wife, Melinda, and that she wants to get their three children out of Russia.

The report said Mrs. Maclean has appealed for help to British and U.S. authorities.

Ingrams brought no word of Maclean except that he lives in a pleasant house in a Moscow suburb with his family and that the three children, who go to a state school, speak only Russian.

The television official told newsmen Soviet authorities let him mix freely with the people and he met a small colony of "runaway Britons."

"I refused invitations to attend their parties and to meet Burgess," Ingrams said. "But they talked a lot about him. They told me he was most unhappy and looking very old."

"He is keen to meet British visitors because he wants to get back to England. He is continually asking people from this country if they think he would be accepted here."

President Nasser, diplomatic representatives and Egyptian officials greeted him at the airport.

Two Seamen Reach Port After 10-Day Gulf Ordeal

FORT MYERS, Fla., Jan. 12 (AP)—Two seamen told today of a 10-day ordeal in a 31-foot fishing boat disabled in a Gulf of Mexico storm—of hunger, thirst, cold and the loss of their skipper.

Charles Shoemaker, 51, and Jack Martin, 47, brought the boat, the Time, into harbor yesterday on Captiva Island just off Fort Myers. They repaired the disabled engine after the storm passed and limped into port.

They said the captain, John P. Lynn of Madeira Beach, Fla., disappeared Monday night while they were sleeping below decks.

They told of using melted ice, used to keep their fish fresh, for drinking water, and of trying to disguise the fishy taste by boiling it with stale coffee grounds used over and over. The concoction

Martin Declares U.S. Is Stronger In Missile Field

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass.) said today that "America today is stronger than the Soviets in the missile field."

Asserting he spoke "as one who has had information available that would make me make this statement," the House Republican leader added: "We are well able to protect our country if the need should come."

In a television interview filmed with Rep. Keating (R-NY) for Upstate New York stations, Martin said the reason the Russians were able to launch an earth satellite first was "because they stole the secrets from the United States that gave them that advantage."

Martin did not elaborate on this. Charges have been made that the Rosenberg atom spy ring gave U.S. space secrets to Russia in 1947-48. Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were executed on espionage charges in 1953.

Gas Storage Tank Explodes

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 12 (AP)—A million and a half cubic feet of artificial gas "whooshed" from the top of a municipal storage tank today in a flash explosion that caused near panic in the northwest side of Indianapolis.

Several families fled from their homes in the densely populated area but returned within an hour. Two persons, Cleophas Gilmer, 44, and Lucile Maline, 48, suffered minor injuries when they fell while trying to escape from the scene.

Civil Defense units and all available policemen circulated in the area and assured residents there was no danger of the fire spreading to a nearby 14-million-cubic-foot tank.

The gas, which half filled the expanding-type smaller tank at the Citizen's Gas & Coke Co. Langsdale plant, quickly burned or was dissipated into the air but the intense heat ignited lubricating oil in the structure.

Gen. Gavin Declines To Run For Senate

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 12 (AP)—Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin has declined to run for the Republican nomination for U.S. senator from Pennsylvania.

His decision was made known by State Sen. George M. Wade who had proposed that the general become a candidate following his open criticism of Defense Department policies and subsequent resignation.

In a letter received by Wade yesterday, Gavin said he would be "honored" to join the Pennsylvania congressional delegation as a Republican.

"I feel, however, that I do not have the political background or ability that one should have to represent properly the people of Pennsylvania. In addition, I have not actually lived in the state for some years and thus I am entirely remote from their problems."

Gavin concluded: "While I am honored by the offer, I must regretfully decline. Thank you again for considering me."

Jury Convicts Former Hodge Aide In Swindle

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 12 (AP)—Edward A. Epping, a key figure in a scandal involving the theft of 1½ million dollars in state funds, was convicted today of forgery, confidence game and embezzlement.

A jury of nine women and three men deliberated about 9½ hours before returning its verdict against the 39-year-old Epping, former office manager for imprisoned ex-State Auditor Orville E. Hodge.

Epping, who already is serving a four- to five-year state sentence for conspiracy to defraud the state, now faces an additional sentence which could run as high as 34 years. Epping pleaded guilty on conspiracy charge.

Circuit Judge Dewitt S. Crow deferred passing sentence, pending the filing within 15 days of a defense motion for a new trial.

In closing arguments, Epping's attorney, Robert H. Rice, pictured him as the "biggest whipping boy the state has ever seen."

Rice contended that the scheme to loot the state treasury was masterminded by Edward A. Hintz, 69-year-old former president of the Southmoor Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago. He said Epping was set up as the "fall guy" in case Hintz got caught.

Hodge, 53, pleaded guilty in 1956 to all charges against him and is serving a 12- to 15-year sentence in Menard Penitentiary. Hintz is serving a 1- to 3-year prison sentence for cashing phony state checks made out by Hodge.

Special Prosecutor Robert B. Oxtoby called Epping "Hodge's man Friday." He said Epping was very careful about implicating himself.

Oxtoby told the jury that Epping left an incriminating signature on only one document—a cashier's check through which $50,000 in $100 bills was obtained at a Loop bank for Hodge. The money was paid in exchange for four forged state warrants Epping had taken to Hintz.

British Clamor For East-West Meeting Grows

LONDON, Jan. 12 (AP)—There was growing support in Britain's press and from some of its political leaders today for a summit conference with the Russians.

Premier Nikolai Bulganin's letters have clearly won the British man in the street over to the idea of talks—and Britons are being told in their newspapers that the Americans are beginning to feel the same way.

Even the loudest British advocates of the top-level conference concede there are risks for the West but they seem willing to take the chance.

Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskill said today either the Russians are sincere and want a settlement of the outstanding issues and a reduction in tension, or it is just propaganda.

"But even if it is propaganda, what is the best way to deal with it—to reject the proposal out of hand? Nothing could have a worse effect on the peoples of the uncommitted countries in Asia and Africa or, indeed, upon very many people in Western Europe," Gaitskill said.

"Support for the conference does not mean that we must sign on the dotted line to everything the Russians have proposed," Gaitskill told the socialist Reynolds News. "But surely we can agree to discuss their proposals."

U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is seen by most Britons as the big stumbling block to negotiations. Lord Beaverbrook's independent, imperialist Sunday Express said editorially this morning:

"For whom does Mr. Dulles think he speaks when he scorns the proposal for talks at the summit? He should understand that he certainly does not speak for Britain. His present bleak negative attitude is quite unacceptable to the people of this country."

The Conservative Sunday Dispatch splashed a story from its correspondent in the United States this morning saying Dulles has backed down, and predicting President Eisenhower will send Bulganin a message holding open the door for a new summit conference.

The independent and influential Sunday Observer took a more cautious line, warning that Russian propaganda is bound to be effective "so long as the West has no new and realistic proposals of its own."

Truman Says Ike Good Military Leader

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said today President Eisenhower was a great military commander because "he had someone to tell him what to do."

Truman said the President "was a great military commander in Europe and in NATO, when he had someone to tell him what to do."

Administration Bids For Demo Trade Support

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration is quietly offering to try to discourage Republican campaign opponents from attacking Democrats for their support of the reciprocal trade and foreign aid programs.

This offer, confirmed by a top rank administration spokesman who referred to remain anonymous, illustrates the plight in which the White House finds itself in trying to push these two key programs through Congress.

As administration officials view the situation, Republican opposition is such they must enlist strong Democratic support for even minimum success toward extending the Reciprocal Trade Act for five years and for preventing drastic cuts in a foreign aid program expected to run around four billion dollars.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks, who has undertaken the job of shepherding the trade bill through Congress, apparently has found an alarming lack of support among House Republicans.

The situation in the Senate is clouded by bipartisan opposition within the Finance Committee. Chairman Byrd (D-Va.) favors the principle of reciprocal trade, but is critical of the way in which the law has been administered.

While Byrd is expected to go along, Sens. Malone (R-Nev.) and Kerr (D-Okla.) will be fighting to bottle up the measure. It will take the administration's best efforts to get a bill to the Senate floor that is not riddled with amendments.

Weeks is reported to have told President Eisenhower at a recent White House conference the administration will have to "sweat blood" to get any trade bill through the House in recognizable form.

As a result, the administration has moved to reassure Democrats who come to its aid that Republicans who attack them in this year's congressional campaign for voting for a reciprocal trade bill and for a high level of foreign aid will get the cold shoulder from the White House.

Demands Face Senators Before Budget Received

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Strong Army and Navy demands for hundreds of millions of extra dollars for advanced weapons faced senators today even before President Eisenhower's budget requests reached Congress.

The President's budget message will be presented to Congress tomorrow. It is expected to call for spending about 74 billion dollars in the fiscal year that begins next July 1. Of this amount, defense outlays are expected to approach 40 billion.

However, some top officers are demanding hundreds of millions of extra dollars for Army missiles and Navy nuclear submarines.

Gavin, Rickover Air Bids

These calls came in closed-door testimony that has been released by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee. The witnesses were Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, Army research director who is retiring, and Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, Navy nuclear expert.

Gavin told senators he "missed Congress" last year by supporting a request for 372 million dollars for Army research and development. He said he really needed nearly 200 millions more.

And without mentioning exact dollar figures, he said the total carried in Eisenhower's budget for the next fiscal year "isn't going to be an awful lot better for research and development."

Rickover, credited with developing the world's first successful atomic submarine for the Navy, testified that 19 nuclear undersea craft now operating or authorized are not enough.

House Probe To Begin

The Senate subcommittee has been investigating U. S. missile and satellite programs since Russia electrified the world with her successful launchings of two earth-orbiting moons.

Beginning tomorrow, military leaders will face yet another set of judges. The House Armed Services Committee will open an exhaustive investigation, but the military are expected to find a relatively friendly court.

Solid Fuels Key To Outer Space, Expert Believes

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—The conquest of space depends now on big rocket engines using solid fuels, a missile expert said today.

The report was published just two days after the Army announced it had been ordered to design a new solid fuel rocket to replace its huge liquid-fueled Redstone, a 200-mile-range missile.

The Navy is developing a solid fuel missile, the Polaris, for launching from surface ships and submerged submarines. It is in the 1,500-mile class.

Harold W. Ritchey, writing in Astronautics, a magazine of the American Rocket Society, said enlarging a current solid fuel engine like the Recruit could provide a first-stage vehicle to enter space. The Recruit is a relatively small missile measuring nine inches in diameter and weighing about 350 pounds.

Ritchey is technical director for Thiokol Chemical Corp., Huntsville, Ala. Huntsville is home for Redstone Arsenal, where Army missile development is located.

Space Pacts Urged In Note To Bulganin

President Outlines Terms For Possible Summit Conference

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower told Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin in a personal message today that "I am ready" to attend an East-West summit conference on condition that it is carefully prepared and shows "good hope" of promoting world peace.

At the same time Eisenhower proposed to the Soviet Premier a sweeping series of agreements at this "decisive moment in history" to renounce outer space warfare, abandon use of the veto in the United Nations over peaceful settlement of disputes, and call off nuclear weapons tests "indefinitely" under a program to stop making nuclear weapons.

But the President rejected by clear implication Bulganin's recent call for a summit conference by early April. And he brushed aside as unnecessary or inadequate half a dozen recent Bulganin proposals including an East-West nonaggression pact, an agreement not to use force in the Middle East, and creation of a zone free of nuclear weapons in West Germany and Central Europe.

4,000-Word Message

The President set forth his views and proposals in a 4,000-word message which Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson delivered to the Soviet Foreign Office in Moscow late today.

The letter replied specifically to a Bulganin letter of Dec. 10. It clearly covered also another long note the President received from Bulganin last week, although that may get a further specific reply later.

The leaders of Britain, France and other NATO nations, who also received December and January messages from Bulganin are expected to reply within a few days, taking the same line as Eisenhower.

The tone of the President's letter was cordial but tough in spots. In appealing for political freedom in Eastern Europe, he reminded Bulganin of the Hungarian revolt 14 months ago and he said bluntly that Soviet communism is responsible for the cold war. He also demanded that Russia live up to its Geneva summit conference agreement to reunify Germany through free elections.

Parley Prospects Advanced

To diplomats it appeared that, in spite of the obvious deadlock on how a summit conference should be arranged and the Eisenhower-Bulganin stalemate on great basic issues, the President's letter advanced the prospects for a summit meeting, possibly sometime later this year.

In discussing his appeal to eliminate the capacity for space war even before it is fully developed, Eisenhower recalled that 10 years ago the United States offered a plan to renounce making atomic weapons. If Russia had accepted it, he said, the world would not today be under the nuclear menace.

"The nations of the world face today," Eisenhower declared, "another choice perhaps even more momentous than that of 1948. That relates to the use of outer space. Let us this time, and in time, make the right choice, the peaceful choice."

"There are about to be perfected and produced powerful new weapons which, availing of outer space, will greatly increase the capacity of the human race to destroy itself."

"If indeed it be the view of the Soviet Union that we should not go on producing even newer types of weapons, can we not stop the (Cont. on Page 2, Col. 3)

Pentagon Reorganization Would Be Involved Task

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower's proposal to reorganize the Defense Department into a form for "decisive central direction" must begin with the fact that there are 28 civilian secretaries, deputy secretaries and assistant secretaries running the department and the three military services.

And there are dozens of generals and admirals.

The office of the secretary of defense alone has about 2,300 persons on its staff, of whom about 1,600 are civilians, the others military personnel assigned to the office.

This 2,300-man staff of the office of the secretary — which is the Defense Department as distinguished from the departments of Army, Navy and Air Force—does not include thousands of others who wear the uniform of or work in civilian capacity for the services but whose operations are directly related to the overall Defense Department.

Three of these agencies alone have a combined personnel roll of about 135,000, directed by administrative chiefs.

The three agencies are part of the unified system, under the control of the Defense Department instead of the separate services. The Armed Forces Special Weapons Project, concerned primarily with the development of nuclear weapons, has about 9,000 personnel, military and civilian, the Military Sea Transport Service has about 14,934. The Military Air Transport Service has approximately 121,000, of whom more than 100,000 are military personnel comprising the air and ground crews for operating the globe-girdling system.

Eisenhower, in his State of the Union message Thursday, said he has under way a special study of the Pentagon organization, that he expects to reach conclusions soon, and that he then "shall promptly take such executive action as is necessary and, in a separate message, I shall present appropriate recommendations to the Congress."

Lias has been ordered deported on the Immigration Service contention that he was born in Greece. The hearing at which this finding was arrived at lasted 22 months between 1953 and 1955.

Lias has repeatedly asserted that he was born in Wheeling.

The Federal District Court hearing of his request was postponed several times because of the illness of the government attorney, Dyer J. Taylor.

Lias is also awaiting action by U. S. District Court Judge Harry E. Watkins on the rescheduling of hearings to determine ownership of certain funds deposited in two Canadian banks.

The trial was continued last month when attorneys for both Lias and the government, which has brought suit against him, indicated that they were not prepared to present their cases.

No definite date has been set for the hearing.

Judge Watkins said this week-end that he had scheduled a hearing in Fairmont for Jan. 20 on a motion by the government, which asked to amend and supplement a bill of complaint in connection with the funds.

Teamster War With AFL-CIO Warming Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—The battle between the AFL-CIO and its ex-affiliate, the Teamsters Union, is warming up a bit but is still in the creampuff - slinging stage.

AFL-CIO groups in Chicago and in Tennessee, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Maryland and the District of Columbia have acted to toss out Teamsters units at local levels as ordered by AFL-CIO President George Meany. But other state and local federations are taking their time in following suit.

Only a little more than a month has passed since the AFL-CIO expelled the 1½-million - member truck drivers union on charges that President-elect James R. Hoffa and other Teamsters leaders were corruptly influenced.

Since then there has existed a sort of armed truce. Hoffa and other Teamsters bosses have been too busy with a series of court cases to worry too much about retaliation.

AFL-CIO leaders have withheld fire too, waiting to see how Hoffa fares in the courts. They feel that without Hoffa the big Teamsters organization could be brought back into the AFL-CIO fold intact. On the other hand, they say starting a rival truck union would only entrench Hoffa and stir up labor troubles that would hurt employers as well as unions.

The Teamsters could force the issue any time by crossing AFL-CIO picket lines at the scene of labor disputes. There has been very little of this. One instance was in an AFL-CIO department store strike in Toledo last month.

Bag Containing Deadly, 3-Foot Rattler Stolen

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—The thief who stole a canvas bag at the Port Authority Bus Terminal may have put the "bite" on himself. The bag contained a deadly timber rattlesnake.

The three-foot-long rattler was being taken from Paterson, N. J., to the Staten Island Zoo by Miss Ann Cielo of Paterson, who has been interested in snakes as a hobby.

Miss Cielo said she got the snake from a man who made his 9-year-old son get rid of it. The bag disappeared while Miss Cielo was getting directions from the terminal information desk.

Boy Kills Girl With Ball Bat

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., Jan. 12 (AP)—Carol Taylor, 15, whose foster brother told police he bashed her skull in with a baseball bat after an argument, died today in Sequoia Hospital.

Doctors had given her at best a 50-50 chance to live since the incident Thursday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Taylor. Her father is executive secretary of the San Mateo County chapter of the American Red Cross.

Dist. Atty. Keith Sorensen said murder charges would be filed tomorrow against Corde Lee Pendleton, also 15. He has been held at Hillcrest Juvenile Hall for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon since he walked five miles through the rain Thursday and told his story to a probation officer J.S. Cowgill.

Cowgill said the youth told him an argument over popular singers resulted in the violence.

Arctic Cold Wave Grips East States

[By The Associated Press]

Nighttime readings in the 30s prevailed over northern Florida while the teens were the rule in the mountains of North Carolina and Virginia.

Fair weather is expected to give way to moisture Monday throughout most of the East. Rain was forecast for the Carolinas, rain or snow in the Middle Atlantic states and snow extending into New England.

Perfect Circle Strike Inquiry Urged By Butler

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Sen. Butler (R-Md.) said today he has asked the Senate "Rackets Committee" to investigate what he called acts of violence by "Walter Reuther's goons" during a strike against the Perfect Circle Corp. of Hagerstown, Ind.

The committee already has said it is investigating incidents in the strike as part of its probe of the United Auto Workers, which Reuther heads. Reuther also is a vice president of the AFL-CIO.

The investigation has centered primarily on the four-year - old UAW strike against the Kohler Co. of Wisconsin, involving charges of violence by both the union and the company and of improper boycott practices by the UAW.

Hearings on the Kohler strike now are scheduled for next month, and committee sources have indicated that testimony about the strike at the Perfect Circle Corp. also may be taken then.

The UAW probe has stirred some friction within the special committee, set up to investigate racketeering and other improper or illegal activities in the labor-management field.

State Senator Charges: 'Red Tape' Keeps Hospital Beds Empty

BALTIMORE, Jan. 12 (AP)—A state senator has declared that "bureaucratic red tape" is keeping patients outside Maryland's chronic disease hospitals while inside there are empty beds.

But hospital officials say they are moving as quickly as possible in the fact of delays in recruiting hospital staffs and in determining the ability of patients to pay for their care.

Sen. Joseph A. Bertorelli (D-Balto 1st) said yesterday that "many who need these facilities are waiting" while beds remain empty in the two newest of the three hospitals—Western Maryland State at Hagerstown and Montebello State in Baltimore.

State Health Department officials come "to the Legislature and ask for large amounts of money, which we admit is needed," Bertorelli said, and then fail to use fully the facilities which result.

Unfilled at present are 60 beds at Montebello State and 260 at the new Western Maryland State. A new wing for 213 beds at Montebello and the Western Maryland Hospital, which has a capacity of 288 beds, were dedicated last summer.

Dr. James A. McCallum, superintendent of chronic-disease hospitals, said Montebello has about 150 patients and about 40 have been admitted to Western Maryland State.

Recruiting of a staff and "phasing in" of patients at Western Maryland is going ahead satisfactorily, he said. Much of the staff, medical approval for admission, said Dr. McCallum, is "coming but haven't been able to enter the right from the surrounding area."

The department faces an acute situation in recruiting nurses for in determining how much they Montebello, he said. However, should pay.

Q. 1—As South you hold:
AKJ10874♥5♦AK1042
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East
3 spades Pass 2 no trump Pass
4 diamonds Pass 4 spades Pass

What do you bid?
A.—Pass. You have told your story and to proceed further would be somewhat indiscreet. Partner's values, such as they are, do not fit your hand. His spade preference is in the nature of a forced bid, and he can be assumed to have at best a worthless doubleton.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
AKJ10874♥5♦AK1042
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East
3 spades Pass 2 no trump Pass
4 diamonds Pass 4 spades Pass

What do you bid?
A.—Two clubs. This is admittedly an underbid but no other call is desirable. You are not strong enough either for the reverse bid of two hearts or a jump to three clubs. Partner should be given the chance to proceed without undue pressure.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
AKJ10874♥5♦AK1042
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East
3 spades Pass 2 no trump Pass
4 diamonds Pass 4 spades Pass

What do you bid?
A.—You should first bid two diamonds and no matter what partner responds, you should then respond with Blackwood convention, and partner's response to that will allow you to determine how far you will eventually go in the heart suit. If partner should raise to three diamonds and then subsequently show two aces in answer to your Blackwood bid, you may well be in a position reasonably to bid a grand slam. Our second choice for the first response would be an immediate Blackwood bid of four no trump.

It's years before a teen-ager should think of changing her naturally lovely eyes.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

How Young Is Too Young For Eye Make-Up?

Mothers aren't the only ones who write us about eye make-up. Look at each other, girls. Were store executives concerned you even able to get the eye about it too. Let me quote from a typical letter I just received from a high school teacher. "I seem to remember something about a lipstick I used to keep hidden from my mother when I was their age," she begins, "and perhaps lipstick was as daring then as eye make-up is now. But I wish you'd take a stand about garish eye make-up so the girls in my classes would read it. You don't encourage it for your young students, do you? I hope you disapprove heartily, as much as I do. They think I'm fussy and behind the times." From many of the letters, I gather that eye make-up for teen-agers has become a fad in some parts of the country. I hope it's just that—a fad that dies quickly and becomes hopelessly passe in a few weeks. I didn't come out entirely against lipstick for teen-agers some years ago when it was the big question. I approved a delicate rosy shade in many

Q. 5—As South you hold:
AKQ5♥AQ5♦4AKQ10764
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East
1 club Double Redouble 1 heart Pass 3 spades 4 diamonds Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—With this hand you should insist upon a game contract, and the manner of doing it is to make a jump shift. The indicated call is therefore, three clubs. An immediate jump in spades is not acceptable, inasmuch as you have only three trumps.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
AK102♥AQJ74♦5AKQ8
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East
1 heart Pass 1 spade Pass 2 no trump Pass 4 no trump Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. You must reject partner's invitation because your two no trump bid was minimum. If anyone in the class treated the four no trump bid as a request for aces, stay after school and read the chapter on the Blackwood convention.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
AK1097♥AQJ♦AQ8♠A96
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East
2 no trump Pass 4 no trump Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—This is a close call. We are normally reluctant to leave in doubles of low contracts when we have an unbalanced five card major, but our defensive values are so good that the penalty may be worthwhile. The deciding factor is the single diamond and the two clubs. If the minor suit holding were reversed, we would lean toward showing the hearts. (Copyright 1956, The Chicago Tribune)

Mt. Savage PTA Improves Play Area At School

MT. SAVAGE — The Mt. Savage Elementary School playground is getting some improvements due to the efforts of the Parent-Teacher Association. The play area in front of the elementary wing is being enlarged. The Cyclone fence has been moved 65 feet toward the "Tear Drop" and main driveway. In this play area are climbing towers and chinning bars.

The elementary school has been supplied with balancing boards and banking boards with baskets. In the ball field, used also as a parking area, a backdrop is being installed. During noon recess, as many as three games of baseball may be seen in progress.

During hours when children are outdoors, barriers built by the Industrial Arts Department of the high school, are placed on the state road. These are reminders to traffic that it is necessary to slow up to insure the safety of the children.

Safecrackers Get Surprise From Keyserite

KEYSER — Two unidentified safecrackers can vouch for the fact that William Zacot, an officer of the Keyser Moose Lodge, is small in stature but is tough as larger men.

Zacot, returning to the club rooms early Saturday morning to attend to some matters he had forgotten before leaving about midnight, surprised the two men attempting to open the safe as he entered the office.

The two men grabbed Zacot, described by Moose employees as being "small, nervous and tough," and forced him to sit on a chair and watch them at work.

After a few minutes he leaped and grabbed one of the burglars, and in the tussle that followed Zacot tore a piece of cloth from a coat worn by one of the men.

He battled both burglars until they rolled and pitched down a flight of steps from the second floor to the street level. Zacot then planted a solid kick in the face of one of his assailants.

The surprised safecrackers ran, leaving their tools beside the safe and Zacot went to the Keyser City Police headquarters. A search of the area was made but the men had escaped.

Zacot was unable to give a detailed description of his two assailants, but the cloth torn from the burglar's coat was turned over to police.

Keyser police and West Virginia State Police are investigating the attempted robbery.

SP: Sneaky Pitch Or Silent Puff?

"The posture of the problem is such that the public interest is not in immediate danger of being adversely affected." This rich example of federal prose is the Federal Communications Commission's gobbledygook way of telling us not to get excited about "subliminal projection" advertising. S. P. is the fancy new type of selling which the TV viewer isn't aware he sees but which nevertheless is supposed to impel him to go right out and buy a sponsor's product.

It works like this: For the briefest interval, say 1/3,000 of a second, an advertising slogan or symbol is flashed on the screen. It all happens so fast the viewer isn't aware he's seen the blurb. Yet he gets the message "subliminally." If it says "Eat popcorn," he's supposed to make tracks for the nearest popcorn stand. A New Jersey movie theatre reported an increase of 57 1/2 per cent in popcorn sales after such a test last September. But a Bangor, Maine, TV station didn't get to first base with a station promotion effort using S. P.

Almost as soon as reports of the experiment appeared in the trade press, there came angry denunciations of what seemed to be the sneakiest item yet to be added to the pitchman's bag of tricks. The FCC got interested, as did the Federal Trade Commission and, eventually and inevitably, Capitol Hill. Sen. Richard Potter of Michigan suggested an immediate FCC inquiry. The National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, meanwhile, decided to stay away from SP techniques until its effects have been studied more closely.

Today, a Washington TV station will present a closed-circuit demonstration of the system for the FCC and interested members of Congress. Whether this will prove anything is open to question. At any rate, it should be relatively painless. Which is more than can be said of many TV commercials, which are not only visible, but all too audible.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky The Problem Of Education

A social science teacher writes me that teachers are not allowed to teach. This brings us down to bedrock in a very serious problem, namely, that our children probably get more schooling and know less than children who attend European schools. The evidence is available on this subject, because when children from abroad come to our schools, they are regarded as bright children, whereas when we send our children abroad, they need to catch up. And it is not all due to the language difficulty.

This teacher, who is now holding a job, writes me: "The administrators expect the teachers to 'teach the whole child'—but, teach him nothing. Anything that requires work on the part of the student is frowned upon. Everything must be easy and Johnny must always be happy and never know failure. As a result of this philosophy Johnny reaches high school without knowing how to read or write or do simple arithmetic problems. The remarkable thing is that some few do learn these things fairly well. The majority of the students are far from being ready for high school. . . ."

Many teachers are writing me these days about their experiences from many parts of the country, and from the letters, I reach the conclusions that the fault is neither with the teachers nor the pupils but with a system of education that does not recognize that some learn quickly, some slowly; that some may be pushed ahead; that others must be retarded. The system that an entire class must be moved up to make room for the next entire class is not only harmful to the child; it is a rejection of the obvious fact that no two human beings are alike in any respect and that a system that is based on averages must be unjust to both the most brilliant and the most stupid students. An average never invented or produced anything.

As this teacher from Ohio writes me: ". . . I repeat again—these young people are not stupid; they simply have never been taught to use their ability to learn but they have been taught to expect something for nothing, and they know absolutely nothing about taking responsibility."

So the teacher gets into trouble. Why are so many of his pupils marked F? Why are there not more C's? The truth, of course, is that there ought to be even more F's. The teachers are afraid to mark as they should.

Why should smart young men or women go into teaching when they are not permitted to teach and if they spend enough years in the system; what else is there to do? The Ohio teacher asks:

"Now, what is the high school teacher to do? If he tries to get some work out of the student or has many failures he is called to the principal's office. Then if they continue he is called to the superintendent's office. Yes, this has happened several times in our system and in several others I know well.

"The teachers do not dare disagree with the philosophy of the administrators. . . . On the other hand, it is our children who are involved in this system which is based upon certain fundamental errors, namely:

1. That all children must remain in school up to an age specified by law, 16 or 18, whether they learn anything or not;
2. That all children must be promoted whether they deserve it or not;
3. That marking is done on a curve instead of on individual merit, so that the norm of the class is determined by an average student;
4. That a teacher's value is to be measured by the ability to work within administrative margins (team work) and not by knowledge and expertise in the subject taught;
5. That democratic principles require that the teacher should not discipline the students lest the student regard himself as socially unwanted or unfit. If a teacher speaks of morals and ethics and happens to quote from the Bible or a great religious leader, there is always danger that the child will repeat what the teacher said and immediately there will be an outcry regarding separation of church and state. How can leadership be trained in a civilization based on the Judea-Christian civilization without reference to the Bible?

The reply ought to be obvious, but is it? Copyright, 1958, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Outrunning His Halo Already

Our Defense Program: How Bold, How New?

WASHINGTON When that tactless fellow, former Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson, was asked whether he considered a defense budget of $40 billion too high, he replied: "I wouldn't think so. That would hardly cover the increased cost of inflation." Charlie Wilson's words are worth bearing in mind, in trying to judge the reality that lies behind the final words of the President's state of the union message. Budgets are boring, at least to most people. But the defense budget does provide a fairly accurate measuring stick of the national response to the Soviet challenge.

The President's supplemental request for this fiscal year raises the current defense budget some $1.3 billion above the previous, or Wilson, level, to the neighborhood of $40 billion. Secretary of defense Neil McElroy has said that the defense budget for the next fiscal year will also be close to the $40 billion mark. How much of a step-up in the national defense effort does a $40 billion defense budget really represent?

The answer seems to be that the new level does not really represent any sharp increase in the overall defense effort at all, but only a shift of emphasis. Take the projected 1959 defense spending budget. It is expected to include about $700 million more for personnel pay. This will provide some needed extra butter for those who get the raise. But it will provide no new guns.

Thus the real increase in expenditures for actual hardware over the Wilson level will be under $1 billion in fiscal 1959. As Wilson so tactlessly said, this will "hardly cover the increased cost of inflation." The fact is that, instead of buying a lot more defense, the Administration means to buy a somewhat different kind of defense.

Take the Air Force as an example. The Air Force share of the new budget will be about $19 billion, a proportion now long sanctified by tradition. Included in this share are big increases for such Air Force missiles as Atlas and Thor. But these increases will be balanced by sharp cut-backs in spending for manned aircraft, notably the B-52 strategic bomber, the basic weapon of the Strategic Air Command. An arbitrary upper limit of about 600 planes has been set for SAC's B-52s. This will mean that further purchases of B-52s will end in the coming fiscal year.

The increased missile effort will also be financed out of our already depleted conventional forces. Still another cut of 100-

Rayburn And Johnson Preparing To Slip Gas Bill Through Congress

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It was Speaker Sam Rayburn's 76th birthday last week and this week or next he and Sen. Lyndon Johnson are preparing a birthday present for American housewives.

"Mr. Sam" has pioneered some fine laws for the benefit of the American people—the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Federal Communications Commission, rural electrification. But Sam has a weak spot when it comes to Texas gas and oil, so the birthday present he's now preparing won't be so welcome.

He is quietly maneuvering to pass the long-delayed natural gas bill, thereby increasing the cost of gas to consumer areas by about $800,000,000 a year. The bill would overrule the Supreme Court and exempt the transmission of natural gas from federal regulation.

After Sam slips the bill through the House, his fellow Texan, Lyndon Johnson, plans to slip it through the Senate as noiselessly and painlessly as possible.

The plan is to operate with little advance publicity. The gas lobby doesn't want consumer groups to have a chance to reach their Congressmen and mobilize public opinion against the bill.

Last year a stream of mayors, ranging from Wagner of New York to Dilworth of Philadelphia and Celebrezze of Cleveland, urged Congress not to pass the bill. They pointed out that it would seriously upset city budgets, put a burden on housewives and benefit only the big gas and oil men.

been optimistic, but it was perfectly serious — the schedule calls for test-firing an Atlas over the full 3,000 mile course this year. But a missile like Atlas is little use unless it is supported by an enormously complex base system which takes years to build.

Each base costs around $100 million. Because the prospects for the Atlas were thought to be so good, it was proposed by the Air Force to start work immediately on six more bases. For economy reasons, serious work is to be started on only one base. Thus the chances are that in the fairly near future we shall be producing many more ICBMs than we shall have bases from which to fire them—which is an odd sort of economy.

In this and other ways, the effort even in the newly fashionable missile field is far less than total. It will be said—correctly—that $40 billion is a lot of money. But power is a relative matter, and the only realistic way to measure our defense effort is in terms of the power of our potential enemy. The Rockefeller Fund panel, which measured our defense in those terms, asked for an immediate increase on the order of $3 billion. The Gaither Committee, which did a similar job, reached a similar conclusion, asking for graduated increases up to $8 billion over the current level. Both groups also urged a major effort to ensure our ability to fight limited wars.

Perhaps it is too early to judge, particularly now that defense has become what it would have been, but for the timidity of most Democrats, years ago—a major national political issue. But as of today, our "bold, new" defense program looks neither very bold nor very new. It looks like essentially the same old product, but somewhat redesigned, and put into a bright new package.

Baering Down on The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Recent Democratic attempt to foster big brotherism on the White House wound up behind the towel rack.

History's morose memos tabulate that big brotherism has always been a marginal notation on ulcerated motives. First attempt we remember was Teddy Roosevelt's offer to take over the parlor while Bill Taft was in the kitchen.

Teddy was turned down like a dude's hat brim. But he tried it again with Woodrow Wilson at the start of World War one.

When the ex-prexola comes back for his toothbrush he's as welcome as a corn borer at the state fair.

Detection And Treatment Of Hypothyroidism

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Thyroid deficiency still is prevalent in the goiter belts of the world: Switzerland, India, and our own midwest. But it is not the same as in the days when goiter was common; now the gland is sluggish but not enlarged. As a result, metabolism is reduced.

The condition is detected through blood and breathing tests or the use of radioisotopes. These standard procedures are a good index of the function of the gland. Most victims are chronically tired and cannot get their work done. They feel chilly even in warm weather and fall asleep with little effort day or night.

The hypothyroid patient tends to become forgetful. Lack of pep had led many to become coffee addicts, drinking five to 30 cups a day. Caffeine helps temporarily but recourse to this stimulant is like whipping a tired horse.

Headache that defies treatment with the usual painkillers is a frequent complaint. This disorder usually gets worse in time but disappears miraculously when thyroid extract is used. Other typical signs of hypothyroidism include dry skin, sparse hair that falls out easily, dizziness due to poor circulation, indigestion, or constipation.

Thyroid extract is an excellent remedy because it supplies the body with the missing secretions. Large doses are not necessary. It symptoms return despite treatment, the physician usually suspects that the extract is old or unreliable. According to Dr. Arnold S. Jackson, of Madison, Wis., thyroid tablets more than three months old may lose their potency.

Heavy coffee drinkers who use the medication may develop palpitation, insomnia, and nervousness because their need for caffeine no longer is present. They ought to discontinue the beverage or use it in moderation. Thyroid tablets must be taken according to directions and some individuals need to continue the medication for the rest of their life.

TOMORROW: Anxiety at examination time.

CHILD'S VISION

J. W. writes: How can a doctor determine when a pre-school child needs glasses?

REPLY Since the tot cannot read, the physician must use other means of measuring vision. One way is to play games; he tears pieces of paper into different sizes, scatters them on the floor, and asks the child to pick them up. The distance at which they can be spotted is used to estimate the far vision. Another plan is to ask the child to interpret symbols or pictures on a chart hung on the wall.

DIURETIC EFFECT OF COLD S. U. writes: Why is it that many people have to urinate more frequently in the winter time than in warm weather?

REPLY

One reason is that in cold weather the blood vessels of the skin contract as a protective measure. This increases the internal blood supply as well as the amount that goes through the kidneys. It also has been suggested that the diuretic effect of cold is due to suppression of the activity of the pituitary gland.

OIL AND GALL BLADDER

K. L. writes: Can a person with gall bladder trouble take corn oil to keep his cholesterol down?

REPLY

Try it. Gall bladder attacks may follow the use of fats and greases but more often develop for no apparent reason. There are other ways of lowering blood cholesterol.

RUPTURED DISK

L. J. writes: What is the spinal disease called that deteriorates the disks?

REPLY

Herniated nucleus pulposus of an intervertebral disk. The cushioning material (disk) between the vertebrae tears or breaks as a result of unusual strain on the back. Less injury is needed when the disk deteriorates as a result of the aging process. When the condition occurs in the lower spine, sciatica ensues whereas pain in arm or neck arises when disks higher up in the spine are involved.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Finally, Congressmen MacDon-ald of Boston, Dingell of Detroit, Madden of Gary, Ind., Vanik of Cleveland, Delaney of Brooklyn waged such an effective battle that Mr. Sam kept the gas bill from coming to a vote. He would have lost.

But now the bill has cleared committee hurdles and waits only a signal from the Speaker. He can give that signal when big-city Congressmen are taking week ends off in Manhattan, Brooklyn or Philadelphia.

Coal-Gas Deal

This time Mr. Sam isn't taking any chances. This time he and the gas moguls have worked out a deal with the coal Congressmen in order to win coal-area votes. Coal Congressmen from West Virginia and Pennsylvania hitherto have voted against the gas bill. But this time an amendment will be tacked onto the bill whereby the gas industry will not dump cheap gas into coal areas in the summer.

NOTE 1—If you want to see how the deal works between the gas bloc and the coal states, watch the votes of such Congressmen as West Virginia's Arch Moore, Harley Staggers, Cleveland Bailey, Will Neal, Elizabeth Kee, and Robert Byrd; also Pennsylvania's coal-area Congressmen.

NOTE 2—Lyndon boosters have been beating the publicity toms-toms again about making him President of the United States, and they have been making some hay. Whenever they've made hay in the past, Lyndon usually puts Texas ahead of the rest of the United States and upsets their apple cart. He's about to do a repeat job now.

Italo-American Solons

The House of Representatives, as its name implies, is representative of all the people of the United States—from cotton farmer to the sons of immigrant boot-blacks. The office of Congressman "Freddie" Santangelo, Democrat of New York City, is not entirely representative of the Congress because it's one of the few in Capitol Hill which sports drapes on the windows and rugs on the floor.

Those Questions

By Bob Considine

LOS ANGELES, (INS) — Bill Hearst, Frank Coniff, Irving R. Levine of NBC, Dan Schorr of CBS and every other person who has recently returned from Russia share a unique problem.

No matter how many millions of words one writes and speaks from Moscow the first thing a friend asks when he sees you is: "Well, how were things in Russia?"

The returncoat wince and, trying not to be huffy, says, "for Pete's sake, didn't you read that 83-part series I just wrote called 'The Russia Nobody Knows? And didn't you hear my coast-to-coast radar talks right from the Kremlin'?"

"Oh, sure," the guy will say. "But how were things in Russia?"

So you tell him a few things that you've repeated ad infinitum in your stories and the fellow says, "Great stuff you should have gotten that into your stories."

The No. 1 question asked of Hearst, Coniff and myself in the question periods that follow Bill's report to audiences around the country is "Will there be a war with Russia?" The answer is "We don't think so." Then comes the No. 2 question. "How can that fellow Kroeschush manage things when he's drunk all the time?"

All we can say is that we saw him four or five times and never saw him drunk. If Khrushchev drank as much as most people seem to think he does his enemies in the jungle of Kremlin politics would have bumped him off years ago.

The fact that he weathered one appalling purge after another during the 40 years he has served the Communist Party, and bobbed up as the Top Banana, must mean that the fellow kept a pretty clear head on his shoulders and a fast pair of legs under him for the footwork unquestionably involved in that saga of survival.

But Time, in its man-of-the-year cover story, had him rolling

But to it last week Freddie invited Roland Libonati, first Italo-American in history elected to the House of Representatives from Chicago. In his honor came all nine of the other Italo-Americans in Congress, which includes some very able legislators.

Among them was Congressman Vincent Dellay of Jersey City, a former Republican who switched to the Democrats during New Jersey's gubernatorial election last November. Of Italian descent, Dellay's name has been Americanized. He is married to an Irish lass named O'Brien.

During refreshments of Italian salami and provolone cheese, the Congressmen compared notes about their antecedents.

"My parents came from Potenza in the Province of Basilicata," volunteered Santangelo in answer to a question from Reps. Dante Fascell (D., Fla.) and Albert Morana (R., Conn.).

"Did you say 'basilico'?" joked Fascell, referring to an Italian spice used in cooking.

"No, I said Basilicata. I'm a real Italian," boasted Santangelo, echoing the friendly argument that rages between mainlanders and Sicilians as to who are the real Italians.

It was finally determined that Morano, Albert Cretella (R., Conn.), Peter Rodino (D., N. J.) and Hugh Addonizio (D., N. J.) all trace their families back to the Province of Naples. Rep. Dellay's family came from around Venice, while Reps. Paul Fino (R., N. Y.) and Victor Anuso (D., N. Y.) claim Sicilian ancestry.

Libonati, one of the few who don't speak Italian, is from the tip of the Italian "boot."

Rep. John L. Kuczyński (D., Ill.), of Polish descent, was also present as a well-wisher.

"I know you're the greatest orator of the state of Illinois," Kuczyński joshed about Libonati's record in the Illinois Legislature. "But down here you had better find out what it's all about before you start talking."

"Don't worry," said Rep. "Mannie" Celler of Brooklyn. "I have him under my wing on the Judiciary Committee and I will guide him."

about like a bowery wine, and there have been enough pictures taken of him with a glass in his hand to provide the rest of the legend. If there seem to be a preponderance of such poses it should also be explained that about the only pictures ever taken of him are at diplomatic receptions. At the receptions where we saw him, he nursed a glass of champagne until it was bubbleless as cider, and on another occasion, a pale Scotch highball. He'd lose his franchise at Shor's bar.

In our travels since returning we've noticed this basic and, we feel, important change in the tone of questions and the mood of audiences. Great doubt once bristled that the Russians are ahead of us in things like rocketry, space probing and the training and militant utilization of scientists of all sorts. The failure of the Vanguard and the revelations and the wrangling in Washington appears to have made the people conclude that America has indeed fallen back in these fields.

"How about the girls over there?" a guy will ask. "Any good-looking?" If there are, the Russians kept them indoors while we were in Moscow.

"Any antagonism shown to you, on the streets, in restaurants and so forth?" None. The Kremlin has been telling the people to hate Americans for the past four decades. Somehow, it doesn't seem to have gotten through.

And, always, there's a question that asks, "Those bums have violated every pact they have ever signed, so why should we listen to them when they say they want to sit down and talk to us on the highest level?"

That's a hard one, but it seems to us that if we automatically turn our backs every time they suggest a talk, or a meet, we're not intelligent, and we'll further alienate the affections of friendly nations who are saying, louder than ever, "Why don't you two big stiffs get together?"

There are even tougher questions than that. And we've devised a conclusive answer. We just deny we were ever there.

Football Scoring Rules Changed First Time Since 1906

Run Or Pass Conversion Is Two Points

Kick Remains One Point; Ball Moved To 3-Yard Line

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Jan. 12 (INS) — The NCAA today voted sweeping changes in college football rules — including the first change in the scoring system in 52 years.

The rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association voted unanimously to make the conversion — after — touchdown worth two points if run or passed over the goal line.

If the conversion is booted, it will still be worth one point. Before today's action at Fort Lauderdale, the conversion, whether run, passed or kicked, netted only a single point.

The committee also voted to move the ball back from the two to the three-yard line for the conversion attempt.

All of the changes go into effect immediately.

The Football Rules Committee also made the first liberal change concerning substitutions since the free substitution rule was booted out the window five years ago.

However, the substitution change still makes the old two-play system virtually impossible. The change permits any player to re-enter the game in any given quarter.

Previously, only players starting a quarter were permitted to re-enter later in the same quarter.

The NCAA officials also adopted a new method for penalizing for free kicks which go out of bounds, liberalized restrictions on ineligible pass receivers downfield, voted a new blocking rule limiting an offensive player to the use of one arm and one hand in blocking and guarding, and changed the rules in an attempt to stop defensive teams from "jamming" the signals of their opponents.

Limit Timeouts

The committee voted to limit the number of timeouts permitted each team during a half to four, instead of five.

The free kick rule, as changed, says that when a team kicks out of bounds it will be penalized five yards and be permitted to kick over.

The change concerning illegal receivers downfield permits illegal receivers to move downfield as soon as the ball leaves the passer's hand instead, as was previously the rule, when the ball was caught.

Committee Chairman H. O. (Fritz) Chrysler, who proposed the scoring change, said:

"This is one of the most striking changes in football history. It is a progressive step and should inject more drama into the sport than it has ever had before."

Chrysler, who is athletic director at the University of Michigan, said the substitution changes were made at the urging of smaller colleges. He added:

"I don't believe this action will lead us back to the two play system. That's one point the coaches were adamant on. Every player will still have to be coached both ways."

Buddy Werner Wins Alpine Skiing Title

WENGEN, Switzerland, Jan. 12 (INS) — Buddy Werner, a shy, 21-year-old from the mountain town of Steamboat Springs, Colo., scored American's first great victory in men's Alpine skiing today when he won the combination title of the Lauberhorn Classics.

The slim, U.S. Army enlistee won the Alpine slalom race, the most difficult of the three, by a wide margin over the Austrian skier. His points were 1.92.

Josf Rieder of Austria was second with 2.36 points.

THE DOOR FOR DEVORE—Hugh Devore (above) has been fired as head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League. Frank McNamney, president of the club, said Devore's contract, which will conclude in 1959, will be honored. Devore became head coach of the Eagles in January, 1956. (International)

West Beats East, 26-7, In Pro Bowl

66,634 Spectators See Long Sprint By Ameche Turn Tide

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12 (AP)—Fullback Alan (The Horse) Ameche cracked loose with a 66-yard run in the last moments of the first half to set the scene for a key score and the West rolled on to a 26-7 victory in the Pro Bowl football battle today.

The smashing run by the big Baltimore Colt star led to a field goal by his teammate, Bert Rechichar, that sent the West into a lead it never relinquished.

A record crowd of 66,634 sat under sunny skies to see this eighth game in a series that starts the pick of the Western Conference against the best of the Eastern of the National Football League.

The game was televised for the first time nationally but blacked out in this area. The previous high attendance was 53,676 in 1951.

Ameche's great gallop came moments after quarterback Earl Morrall of Pittsburgh had arched a beautiful 39-yard pass into the end zone to Cleveland's Ray Renfro for a touchdown that put the East in front, 7-6.

Then Ameche cut loose, knocking down tacklers on the way, in the longest run in the Pro Bowl series. Don Paul hauled him down on the East 4 and on fourth down, Bert Rechichar kicked the first of his two field goals.

Until then it had been a stubbornly fought defensive duel.

Boy Drowns While Skating At Shawnee

Ivan E. Way, 19, Falls Into Open Channel On Lake

A 19-year-old Fishertown, Pa., youth drowned yesterday afternoon when he fell through the ice while skating on the artificial lake at Shawnee State Park.

The youth, Ivan Eugene Way, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Way, fell into the water shortly before 2 p.m., and his body was recovered about 3 p.m.

J. Ralph Mickle, deputy coroner of Bedford County, said the Way youth apparently skated around a small island in the lake and didn't see a small channel in the lake which wasn't frozen over by ice.

Mr. Mickle said the channel is located about a half mile from the shore and is obscured from view by the small island.

Three teen-age boys saw the youth struggling in the water but were unable to assist him.

Members of Shawnee Valley Volunteer Fire Company dragged the area where the youths saw the Way youth go under. His body was recovered in eight feet of water after an hour of searching.

State Police who investigated the accident said the youth's watch stopped at 1:52 p.m.

The body is at the Blackburn Funeral Home in Fishertown near Bedford.

Labor Urged To Oppose Blue Cross Hike

BALTIMORE, Jan. 12 (AP)—Baltimore attorney Hyman A. Pressman is urging organized labor to oppose a 22 per cent rate increase proposed for Blue Cross hospitalization insurance.

Pressman, in a letter to Maryland AFL-CIO leaders, also suggested that labor hire an actuarial consultant firm "to dig into the Blue Cross finances just as was done in New York."

Maryland Hospital Service Inc., which operates the Blue Cross plan in this state, announced Dec. 27 it has asked the State Insurance Department to approve the rate boost for the more than one million subscribers in Maryland.

Pressman was among those requesting a public hearing. Insurance Commissioner Charles S. Jackson has announced that "hearings will be held, but no date is set."

"A similar application in New York," Pressman's letter said, "brought forth immediate and strenuous opposition of organized labor."

The attorney said New York labor groups hired Harold Faggen Associates and the firm "developed some startling facts" at rate hearings.

Pressman said the New York investigation showed that Blue Cross "had a bigger surplus than they reported and that many statements given to subscribers were not correct."

He added: "New York's rates are considerably lower than those in effect in Maryland, yet the request for an increase in New York has not been approved or disapproved."

"More than two weeks have passed since Blue Cross applied for an increase in rates, yet no protest has been heard from organized labor in Maryland."

Snow Makers At Work

The swirling snow drifting upon the slopes of the Marsh Mountain ski slope near Deep Creek Lake in Garrett County is being made by the big mist-making nozzles, one of which is in operation. Workers are adjusting two more of the snow-makers which resemble big lawn sprinklers. The nozzles are fed by streams of water and compressed air and, when weather conditions are right, are capable of producing artificial snow at the rate of three inches an hour. Six of the snow-making machines are used on the Marsh Mountain ski slopes to maintain base snow.

Let's Go Exploring

By REV. JOHN R. ZINN

That is what Jesus invited His disciples to do. He challenged those who had courage and daring and possessed a bit of imagination to "Launch Out Into the Deep." He made the search for life as exciting as climbing Mt. Everest. And He still challenges His modern day disciples to follow Him. He dares them to try His Way. Spiritual Explorers: that is what a Christian actually is. There are several unknown territories that Jesus calls us to explore with His Spirit:

1—THE LAND CALLED SELF. Take a trip around your mind. Investigate and poke about for a bit in the unfamiliar territory of desires, capacities, appetites and yearnings—you may discover a lot about yourself you didn't know. You may come upon that strange quantity called child of God that is within you.

2—THE PERSON OF GOD. That is actually what all men are yearning for—The Presence of God. We are restless, said St. Augustine, until we find Him. The Psalmist concurs the Job sighs in the midst of all his troubles "O if I knew where I might find Him" to discover the reality of God for myself—quite a challenge!

3—THE PLACE CALLED PEACE AND GOODWILL. Is there such a place? How can we reach it? Will it come by sitting idly by hoping that it will drop from the skies? Or must we search for it—by building bridges across the deep chasms of race, clan, color and creed?

4—THE TERRITORY OF CHURCH UNITY. How much needs to be done there! What barriers of tradition, and custom bar the path! What underbrush of pride and prestige and status must be hacked away before we can go ahead. Believe me, there is as much daring and courage exhibited around denominational council tables as some of history's explorers have shown. Do not think for one moment that all the exploring is being done in that realm—the physical. All about us sincere Christians are assuming the role of pioneer in many difficult fields never giving up until the kingdoms of this world become the Kingdom of God and of His Christ.

WILLIAM A. WILSON

W. A. Wilson Candidate For County Board

William A. Wilson, a native of Cumberland, Saturday announced his candidacy for Allegany County commissioner, subject to the Republican primary May 20.

Wilson stated: "When I assumed my duties as county commissioner last December 2 I was aware that there had been considerable friction and decided at that time that in conducting my part of the office I would not indulge in personalities, and would weigh each matter brought before the board on the basis of what would be to the best advantage of the citizens of Allegany County."

"I feel that my experience in the clerk of Circuit Court Clerk's office, as president of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors and as a business man qualifies me as one of the administrators of the county's business."

"My candidacy will be free of any slates or promises, as I feel that in this way my actions on the board can be devoted to the best interests of Allegany county."

Wilson was born in Cumberland, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Wilson, 226 Cecelia Street. He lived in Cumberland until 1938 when he married the former Aleda H. Blair, of Midland. The Wilsons reside in Midland with their three daughters, Willeda, a student at Frostburg State Teachers College; Martha Lou and Ruth Lee, students at Midland Elementary School.

Wilson was graduated from the old Pennsylvania Avenue High School in 1931. He worked in the county commissioners' office in 1937 as a clerk and in 1938 transferred to the clerk of court's office as a license clerk. He held that position until 1950.

He is secretary-treasurer of the Cumberland Office Supply Company. From 1950 to 1957 he was president of the Election Board. Last December 2 he assumed his duties as a county commissioner after being appointed by Gov. McKeldin upon recommendation of the Allegany County Republican Committee. He filled a vacancy created by the resignation of William H. Lemmert, of Frostburg.

Wilson is a member of the Georges Creek Lodge, AF and AM, Lonaconing Republican Club, Lonaconing Lions Club and Midland Fire Department.

For the past 14 years he has been treasurer of the Maryland State Firemen's Association.

Second Demo Slate Expected In State Race

Bruce, Turnbull Draw Support

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE, Jan. 12 (AP)—Speculation mounted today that strong efforts will be made this week to field a second slate of candidates for the statewide Democratic primary May 20.

The underground movement is an attempt to rally scattered resistance to at least half of the ticket worked out last week.

The slate offered to the Democrats as a "harmony" dish included Comptroller C. Millard Tawes for governor, Baltimore's Mayor D'Alesandro for U. S. Senator, Senate President Louis Goldstein for comptroller, and C. Ferdinand Sybert for re-election as attorney general.

The D'Alesandro switch from an opponent to a running mate of Tawes failed to evoke support in some party quarters. The choice of Goldstein failed to stir others.

Feeler began to fly among the host of Democrat generals about opening up a second front. It was reported that meetings to seek a common ground of agreement started today.

Bruce As A Starter

Most prominently mentioned as a starting point was the candidacy of James Bruce for U. S. Senator. As a starter he had the endorsement of two of the party's armchair generals, former governor W. Preston Lane Jr. and former U. S. Senator Millard E. Tydings.

As one example of how mixed-up the Democrats are, both retired politicians also have blessed Tawes' candidacy.

Bruce has publicly disclaimed interest in aligning himself with other candidates to buck the entire Tawes ticket. But others continued their exploration.

In the casting about for an opponent for Tawes, the names of two state senators popped up frequently. One is John Grason Turnbull of Baltimore County, a prospective starter in the Senatorial race, too. The other is Edward S. Northrop of Montgomery.

The search for a well-rounded ticket went to the Eastern Shore for a comptroller candidate. Among those to whom overtures were expected to be made were such leaders as C. Emerson Harrington Jr. and W. Grason Winterbottom of Cambridge.

'Lone Ranger' Mahoney

While all the exchanging was going on, the biggest Democratic vote getter of all time, George P. Mahoney, continued to ride as the lone ranger. He is making his third onslaught for the U. S. Senate still getting the cold shoulder from a majority of the leaders.

Failure to solidify dissident elements in another ticket will not free D'Alesandro and Goldstein from worry of volleys being concentrated on them.

D'Alesandro still will have to contend with Bruce, Mahoney and a few others. Besides the snub by Lane and Tydings, D'Alesandro was left out of an endorsement of his three running mates by a powerful Democratic organization in Baltimore's Second District.

Goldstein as yet has no formal opposition. But it is fully expected and Joseph L. Manning of Baltimore has offered himself to those leaders wanting to throw up a roadblock.

No Machines, Says Long

Another Democratic U. S. Senate aspirant, economics professor Clarence D. Long of Johns Hopkins University, issued a statement today.

"All of these endorsements and political alignments," said Long, "are payment for past debts or future favors. The politician can't run a machine on people like me."

"Again and again, in one way or another, the voter is saying, 'I'm sick of the politician. Let's get somebody in there who will do something for this country instead of for himself.'"

"I have now met and talked with 13,000 voters in 14 counties, and I am apparently the only senatorial candidate who is out developing strong grass roots strength. If either of the old pros has any support with the rank and file, they keep it well hidden, and none of the other candidates seem to know what a voter looks like outside of a party oyster roast."

Mason's Nameless Cow Wins Butterfat Honors

A nameless registered Holstein bearing No. 3483959 owned by John T. Mason of Cresaptown was the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association butterfat leader for December with 95 pounds of butterfat in 2,250 pounds of milk.

The report prepared by Wheeler W. Arnold and Harry E. Miller, association supervisors, lists 12 cows among the top butterfat producers because of a three-way tie for tenth place.

In second place last month was No. 61, a grade Holstein owned by Shumaker Brothers, Rawlings, who produced 94 pounds of butterfat in 2,530 pounds of milk.

Mr. Mason, the Shumakers, I. L. Brooke and Son, Pinto, and Fred C. Siple, Fort Ashby, Va., all had at least two cows on the select list. The Shumakers had a second cow tied for sixth place and a third cow in ninth position.

City Street, Sewer Work Proposed

Cost Is Estimated At Over $1,000,000

Improvements to streets and sewers estimated to cost slightly more than $1,000,000 are listed in the annual report of the City Engineering Department.

C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, said the department has made no attempt to assign priorities to the projects but that all are needed.

Surveys and cost estimates have been prepared by the Engineering Department for the projects which fall into six categories:

Streets serving the Frederick-Bedford street area, miscellaneous street improvement and widening projects designed to speed the flow of traffic, street improvements serving Line C—the Industrial Boulevard—section of the Thruway, streets which need a new wearing course, sanitary sewers to serve the Winifred Road section and storm sewers.

The 15 projects recommended in the Bedford-Frederick street area were estimated to cost $540,327.

Included are improvements to 13 streets connecting Bedford and Frederick—Valentine, Bopp, Conrad, Dryer, Edward, Eichner, Fectig, Forster, Lowell, Pearre, Regina, Schlund and Welch avenues.

Improvements to George Street between Frederick Street and the B&O Viaduct, Frederick Street between Centre and George streets, and improvements to Frederick from Henderson Avenue to Woodlawn Terrace completes this phase.

The necessary adjuncts or connecting roads to the Thruway's Boulevard section were estimated to cost $187,000.

Included are improvements to Blackiston, Memorial and Quebec avenues, Frank's Lane and Vancouver and Seymour streets.

Improvements to nine streets in a miscellaneous group were estimated to cost $104,915.

Included are a stone base and surface treatment for the city dump road, improvement of Franklin Street between Centre and Mechanic streets, surface treatment of portions of Knox, Bedford and Williams streets, Maryland Avenue and Bond and A streets.

Resurfacing of portions of 10 streets is recommended at a cost of $7,175. Included are portions of Camden Avenue, Windsor Road, Buckingham Road, Ridgeale Avenue, Dunbar Drive, Elder Street, Mary and Seymour streets, Wempe Drive and Washington Street from Kiefer to Fayette Street.

Three sanitary sewer projects to serve the Winifred Road section are estimated to cost $55,434. They are laid out in sections of 3,475, 1,710 and 3,340 feet respectively.

Three storm sewer projects are listed as needed and would cost about $114,500. They include the Calvin Street storm sewer, from Calvin Street to the city limits; Hill Top Drive sewer, from Hill Top Drive to Baker Street, and a second Hill Top Drive sewer which would carry the line from Oldtown Road to Montreal Avenue.

Two Men Hurt In Tavern Fight At Friendsville

Broken Bottle Used In Slashing Scrape

Two area men were seriously injured early yesterday morning in a cutting scrape at a Friendsville tavern. Maryland State Police have asked Cleveland authorities to pick up and hold the man identified as their assailant.

Injured about 12:30 a.m. at Humbertson's Tavern in Friendsville were Paul Eugene Spear, 21, of that Garrett County community, and Donald Earl Augustine, 27, of Oldtown.

Spear was admitted to Uniontown Hospital suffering from cuts on the stomach and face and Augustine with cuts on the face and chest.

They were reported in serious condition when admitted, and had lost a great deal of blood from the cuts which Maryland State Police said were inflicted by a broken bottle held by Paul Richard Morrow, 24, of Cleveland, Ohio, after an argument.

In Fair Condition

Trooper First Class Charles DeWitt, who investigated, said both men were reported in fair condition yesterday afternoon.

Tic. DeWitt said an assault with intent to kill warrant has been secured and that Cleveland police have been asked to apprehend Morrow, who left the tavern after the fracas. He added that Morrow will be extradited.

The cutting occurred as the tavern began to clear out its customers for the night.

Prior to the closing, Tic. DeWitt said, there had been an argument as to the affections shown to Mr. Augustine's wife, but it had been patched up by closing time.

Are Cut By Bottle

The trouble began when Augustine, who authorities said apparently had forgotten his coat, attempted to re-enter as the proprietor's wife, Mrs. Fred Humbertson, was trying to get the others out.

Morrow, husband of a daughter of Mrs. Humbertson, came from upstairs and attempted to put Augustine out, the trooper said. Spear stepped in to interfere and the slashing, believed to have been done with a broken beer bottle, followed.

Tic. DeWitt said Morrow was identified as the assailant later yesterday morning after he left the tavern, apparently to return to Cleveland.

Both of the injured men are married. Spear is employed by a gas drilling firm and Augustine as a timberman.

Morrow, husband of a daughter of Mrs. Humbertson, came from upstairs and attempted to put Augustine out, the trooper said. Spear stepped in to interfere and the slashing, believed to have been done with a broken beer bottle, followed.
